1000 place to see before die: Research Companion to Corruption in Organizations Ronald J. Burke, Cary L. Cooper, 2009-01-01 This is a very timely book. The coverage it gives to the topic is superb. The individual, organisational and institutional causes of corruption are laid out along with analyses of the choices that we all have to make to deal with its consequences. In these times of increased scouting of corporate behaviour, there is something to learn here for policy makers, corporate leaders and researchers alike. Paul Sparrow, Lancaster University, UK Ronald Burke and Cary Cooper have assembled the most comprehensive volume of work available today on the topic of organizational corruption. However, the volume is far-reaching in more than just its content. In addition to attracting some of the most widely-read scholars in the area, Burke and Cooper have found space for a number of bright new voices and thus, insights as well. This makes for a volume that is as vibrant and exciting as it is complete. Scholars not only should read it, they will enjoy doing so. Marshall Schminke, University of Central Florida, US Corruption in organizations is creating an increasing number of victims and causing huge costs. This timely book brings together international researchers who address the causes and consequences of corruption in organizations and the action needed to reduce levels of corruption worldwide. Corruption is a worldwide problem and is likely to increase as a result of the current economic meltdown. Specific attention is devoted to causes of corruption such as individual levels of moral development, moral disengagement, greed, the routinisation of corruption, and organizational factors such as conflicts of interest, reward systems and organizational cultural values. The Companion suggests methods and examples to reduce levels of corruption that include education and training, whistleblowing, the increase of organizational controls through rules and structure, and developing an ethical organizational culture. Academics and postgraduate students interested in both crime and corruption in organizations will warmly welcome the Companion. Policymakers in government, those involved in professional services such as accountants and lawyers, as well as managers of any organization interested in conducting ethical business will find the Companion invaluable.

1000 place to see before die: Das Ende der Illusionen Andreas Reckwitz, 2019-10-27 Noch vor wenigen Jahren richtete sich die westliche Öffentlichkeit in der scheinbaren Gewissheit des gesellschaftlichen Fortschritts ein: Der weltweite Siegeszug von Demokratie und Marktwirtschaft schien unaufhaltsam, Liberalisierung und Emanzipation, Wissensgesellschaft und Pluralisierung der Lebensstile schienen die Leitbegriffe der Zukunft. Spätestens mit dem Brexit und der Wahl Donald Trumps folgte die schmerzhafte Einsicht, dass es sich dabei um Illusionen gehandelt hatte. Tatsächlich wird erst jetzt das Ausmaß des Strukturwandels der Gesellschaft sichtbar: Die alte industrielle Moderne ist von einer Spätmoderne abgelöst worden, die von neuen Polarisierungen und Paradoxien geprägt ist – Fortschritt und Unbehagen liegen dicht beieinander. In einer Reihe von Essays arbeitet Andreas Reckwitz die zentralen Strukturmerkmale der Gegenwart pointiert heraus: die neue Klassengesellschaft, die Eigenschaften einer postindustriellen Ökonomie, den Konflikt um Kultur und Identität, die aus dem Imperativ der Selbstverwirklichung resultierende Erschöpfung und die Krise der Liberalismus.

1000 place to see before die: Älter werden macht mich echt knackiger – mal knackt es hier, mal knackt es da Silke Neumayer, 2023-05-11 Älter werden ist total leicht … … wenn man es mit Humor nimmt. Silke Neumayer kehrt zurück zu dem Thema, über das sie am liebsten schreibt, auch wenn die Feldforschung am eigenen Leib ihr die Stirn in Falten legt: das Älterwerden. Mit Charme, Offenheit und einer großen Portion Komik und Selbstironie zeigt sie die großen und kleinen Veränderungen auf, die mit den Jahren auf uns zukommen. Sei es das ewige Scrollen in Dropdown-Menüs, bis das eigene Geburtsjahr erscheint, oder auch der alltägliche Kampf gegen die äußeren Zeichen des Älterwerdens, die sich gemein einzuschleichen versuchen. Darf es ein klein wenig Botox sein? Oder brauchen Sie schon Ersatzteile? Ziehen Sie eine Brille auf, oder verlängern Sie einfach Ihre Arme? Nahbar, einfühlsam und unfassbar komisch schafft es Silke Neumayer, dass man über das eigene Älterwerden lachen kann. Doch Vorsicht! Auch Lachfalten sind blöderweise Falten ...

1000 place to see before die: Travel, Agency, and the Circulation of Knowledge Gesa Mackenthun, Andrea Nicolas, Stephanie Wodianka, 2017 Ever since the Gilgamesh epic and Homer's Odyssey, stories of travel and adventure, whether 'fictional', 'factual', or a mix of both, have been crucial to the collective self-definition of human societies. Since the early modern period and the increased frequency of cross-cultural encounters, the literary motif of the journey became a significant ingredient of colonial imagination. The ideology of adventure, crucial to many works of literature, pervades Western discourses of economic expansion and scientific discovery, while anthropologists, seeking to document indigenous story traditions, encountered an oral archive not unlike that of their own. Travelistic texts (by 'culture heroes', explorers, colonial agents, missionaries, scientific explorers, refugees, and foreign visitors) often provide the semantic repertoire for descriptions of 'exotic' spaces and populations. The knowledge gained through physical encounters during journeys to foreign lands often functions to revise inherited ideas about 'cultures' - those of others as well as one's own. The topics 'travel' and 'travel writing' therefore invite us to address questions of reliability and verifiability. This volume brings together experts from diverse disciplines and places around the globe whose work is concerned with the phenomenon and discourse of travel, transculturation, and the cross-cultural production of knowledge. The contributions reflect the recent shift in travel scholarship toward including the study of ideological conflicts within Europe's 'imperial gaze', as well as attempts at tracing the perspective of Europe's 'others', which frequently challenged colonial certainties and claims to intellectual supremacy.

1000 place to see before die: Internationalisierung in der Tourismuswirtschaft Markus Pillmayer, 2014-04-22 Fortschreitende Internationalisierungsprozesse haben weltweit auch im Tourismus zu erheblichen Transformationen auf der Anbieterseite geführt. Die wissenschaftliche Auseinandersetzung ist zwar bemüht, mit den Veränderungen Schritt zu halten, dennoch besteht nach wie vor ein beträchtliches Forschungsdefizit in Hinblick auf Risiken und Chancen, die touristischen Unternehmen durch Internationalisierungsprozesse entstehen. Das gilt in besonderer Weise für den Nahen Osten, der immer noch zu den Zielgebieten gehört und dessen touristische Unternehmen massiv von Veränderungen im internationalen Kooperationsgeschehen betroffen sind. Markus Pillmayer stellt Internationalisierung anhand eines multioptionalen Ansatzes über verschiedene Zugänge, die als theoretischer Referenzrahmen für das Vorhaben fungieren, als Prozessphänomen dar.

1000 place to see before die: Black Hills Passion Play Johanna Meier, 2008-12-15 In 1932, Josef Meier, a native of Luenen, Germany, brought a small company of actors to the United States to tour with a passion play. It was performed in German, destined for a limited engagement in German theaters, churches, and German-speaking communities. Political and economic conditions in Germany were already deteriorating during this time, and Meier determined to remain in America, to found a permanent home for the play. He translated the play into English, hiring American actors to replace the German-speaking cast. As he booked tours across the United States, Meier continued to seek a suitable permanent outdoor location for his production, mentioning his quest to the public in interviews across the nation. En route to the West Coast, Meier presented the Passion Play in Sioux Falls, the only town of size within South Dakota at that time. A group of businessmen from the Black Hills attended and asked Meier to examine possible sites in their area. He chose a spectacular natural location in Spearfish, and in 1939, an amphitheater was constructed and became the home of the renamed Black Hills Passion Play of America.

1000 place to see before die: Kulturelle Geographien der Vielfalt Nicolai Scherle, 2016-08-15 Wie tolerant ist unsere Gesellschaft angesichts einer kaum noch zu überblickenden Vielfalt an Identitäten und Lebensstilen? Begreifen wir sozio-kulturelle Heterogenität als Chance oder empfinden wir sie als Belastung? Inwieweit können Unternehmen die Potentiale eines strategischen Diversitätsmanagements in Wert setzen? Nicolai Scherle nähert sich diesen Fragen, die in den letzten Jahren verstärkt in den öffentlichen Diskurs gerückt sind. Sein Plädoyer für »gelebte Vielfalt« jenseits von Political Correctness und strategischen Markt- oder Personalüberlegungen setzt sich umfassend mit menschlicher Heterogenität auseinander – aus unterschiedlichen konzeptionellen Perspektiven, in verschiedenen historischen Kontexten und aus einem Blickwinkel, der Theorie und Praxis verbindet.

1000 place to see before die: Afrika seit der Dekolonisation Martin Welz, 2020-11-18 Africa is a continent with an eventful history that currently has a population of more than 1.2 billion, in 54 recognized states. It is shaped by different cultures, languages and religions. Some of the states have gone through crises and conflicts, others are rooted in tradition and ancient customs, while yet others have opened up towards modern economic and socio-economic trajectories. Overall, Africa is currently confronting a number of serious problems. The continent is still facing tremendous challenges even today & in creating the conditions for a peaceful community, providing all citizens with access to education, medicine and hygiene care, and in improving housing and living conditions. In twelve chapters, Martin Welz presents Africa=s remarkable diversity and calls into question clichés and stereotypes by focusing on African and non-African protagonists and structural conditions. Among other things, he vividly illustrates the stages that were involved in decolonization and their effects on today=s societies. He describes external influences on Africa and the political characteristics and systems in the individual states. The author thus opens up a broad panorama over Africa=s historically based situation and provides the reader with a rapid and well-founded overview of the current social and political situation on the entire continent. Horst Köhler (President of Germany, 2004&2010) commented on the book: ?Martin Welz=s book is like a mosaic: up close, you can see all the details and differences, ranging from geography and history to the formative personalities of the countries of Africa that were once shaped by colonial despotism. But when you finish the book and step back, you=re able to see the major connections and structures. Anyone wanting to understand the history and politics of Africa since decolonization and get to know the diversity of the continent better should read this book.=

This text offers readers a short and highly accessible account of the ideas and concepts constituting geography. Drawing out the key themes that define the subject, What is Geography? demonstrates how and why these themes - like environment and geopolitics- are of fundamental importance. Including discussion of both the human and the natural realms, the text looks at key themes like environment, space, and place - as well as geography's methods and the history of the discipline. Introductory but not simplified, What is Geography? will provide students with the ability to understand the history and context of the subject without any prior knowledge. Designed as a key transitional text for students entering undergraduate courses, this book will be of interest to all readers interested in and intrigued by the geographical imagination.
